ACL Distribution, Inc.

In a joint statement, Automotive Components. Ltd (ACL), Tasmania, Australia, and ACL Distribution, Inc. (ADI), Grand Rapids, Michigan, announced the purchase of ADI by Tim Vehlewald. The agreement provides Vehlewald with ownership of the company name, company assets and includes exclusive marketing and distribution rights for the use of the ACL and Race Series names and products in North and South America. Tim Vehlewald is now president, CEO and chairman of the new company. ACL Distribution, Inc., had been a wholly owned subsidiary of Automotive Components Ltd., prior to the transaction.

ACL Distribution, Inc., now an independent company, will remain operating from its present location and will continue to purchase passenger car/ light truck and Race Series engine bearings from ACL Bearing Company for sale in the Americas. ADI will market its products under the ACL and Race Series brands as well as CENTRA, a newly established brand. Race Series branded engine bearings will continue to be manufactured by ACI Bearing Company for the foreseeable future.

It is expected that the new operations will alleviate the supply problems ACL Distribution, Inc. and its customers have experienced for the last eighteen months, during which time ACL had been operating under receivership management. Tim Vehlewald stated that he anticipates his company's fill rate to improve steadily and to reach a 90 to 95 per cent level by January 2011. ■
